

The geographical locations of the existing CLAMP calibration sites can be seen using Google Earth after downloading a .kmz file from the CLAMP website.

Most of the existing sites represent temperate vegetation in N.America, Europe and Japan.

